

Customs Officers Charged With Assaulting Fellow Officers at Newark Airport

The three indicted officers are accused of assaulting two fellow male officers on two separate occasions in November and January

By Kate King

Sept. 13, 2017 6:06 pm ET

Three U.S. Customs and Border Protection officers have been arrested and charged with assaulting fellow officers at Newark Liberty International Airport in New Jersey.

The three indicted officers: Tito Catota, 38 years old, Parmenio I. Perez, 40, and Michael A. Papagni, 32, appeared before Judge Michael A. Hammer in U.S. District Court in Newark on Wednesday and were released on $100,000 bonds. They are accused of assaulting two fellow male officers on two separate occasions in November and January.